STRICKEN MAN LEAVES ORDERS

HEALTH-SEEKER IN PHOENIX
LEAVES DIRECTIONS AS TO DIS-POSITION OF REMAINS AFTER DEATH FROM CONSUMPTION.

PHOENIX, September 10.—Eugene H. Kelley was found dead in his room at the Hardwick hotel Tuesday morning. During the night he had died of consumption. He was heard to cough about 11 o'clock and nothing more was heard from him until this morning, when an employee of the hostelry who entered his room to clean it up, found him dead.

Coroner Johnstone was notified and summoned a jury to view the remains. Owing to the fact that Kelley had been expecting his end and had been very methodical in making his arrangements for it, the work of the jury was very light.

"Kelley was the most methodical man I ever heard of," said Justice Johnstone afterwards. "I never attended to a case where the dead man had written out his wishes as Kelley had."

The deceased came to the Hardwick on May 10, and has remained there since. He was in the last stages of consumption even then and has sunk steadily since. At the time of his death he weighed scarcely more than sixty pounds.

Some time ago he left a letter with the clerk of the hotel, to be put in the safe. This letter, he explained, was to be opened in case of his death. The coroner opened it today and found that it was a tabulated statement of the wishes of Kelley. He set forth at considerable length what he desired done with his body and personal property. He directed that his remains be buried here, explaining that his home city, Galveston, Texas, is built on low ground and water is only a few feet below the surface of the ground. He did not fancy being buried in water nor placed in a vault. Besides, he desired to save the expense of having his remains transported back to Texas.

In his pockets was found an envelope, marked on the outside, "Card of Identification." Inside was a slip of white paper with his name and address, "Eugene H. Kelley, Galveston, Texas," written thereon. Below was the name and address of his sister, Mrs. W. W. McCullough, 315 South Boulevard, Dallas, Texas.

In another pocket was a pocketbook containing $191, mostly in bills. In his shirt was a diamond stud of considerable value. A valuable gold watch and chain were also in the room.

The jury's verdict was that Kelley died from natural causes. Easterling & Whitney have taken charge of the remains and notified his sister.

EVENTFUL TRIP OF PHOENIX MEN

A FEW OF THE INCIDENTS ENCOUNTERED IN GLOBE AND THE ROOSEVELT COUNTRY, AS RECOUNTED BY THE REPUBLICAN.

The outing party consisting of C. H. Valentine, Ed Lightner, R. E. Wilson and J. A. C. Martinez returned Sunday night from an eventful trip to Globe, but it has taken two days for them to recover from the nervous prostration caused by the incidents of the trip, sufficiently to give a lucid account of it, says the Republican.

They say Globe is a fine little city and they would like to live there if the people would only tear up the jail, which they found to be the only drawback to the town. Their brief incarceration was sufficient to convince them that jail life in Globe is no poet's dream, but they were thankful that they had enough money in their clothes to settle with the kangaroo court.

The trip was both pleasurable and exciting all the way and the game between here and Roosevelt they report as being plentiful. They were careful, however, not to say whether they got any of it or not.

An incident near Fish Creek station gave Mr. Wilson the degree of M. D., in much less time than it would take to secure it of a regularly constituted college.

A Mexican was thrown from a horse and kicked severely, making a ghastly wound in his head. When he saw the blood streaming and noted the extent of his injury, he assumed that he was nearing the threshold of death, and began to call for a doctor. There was none in the camp, but Mr. Wilson responded to the cry of distress, taking with him a shotgun cartridge which held all the medicine there was in the party, a quantity of bandages and a good supply of nerve. With this equipment he dressed the man's wounds and gave him a dose of pills, and discharged him as on the high road to recovery. The Mexican in his gratitude directed him to present his bill to friends in Globe and it would be paid, whatever amount. Mr. Wilson was satisfied with having earned the title of "Doc" and did not present his bill. Anyhow he figured that the local M. D.'s would need all the loose money that could be gathered up in those parts and he did not want to make a charge until he opened an office, for fear of being a quack.

Roosevelt they report as a great sight and well worth the time and expense of anybody who chooses to pay the place a visit. Like all other travelers they say it is surprising and can hardly be appreciated by anybody who has not been there. They were particularly interested in the operations of the big cable that carries the immense rocks from the quarry 300 feet above to the dam. The workmen kindly offered them a ride in the big cage or whatever the receptacle is called that carries the rocks and Messrs. Valentine and Lightner accepted. Doe did not go because he felt his services would be needed in attending his friends after they fell out and Martinez, who has been broken up a time or two, knows how it feels, said he preferred to wait until he had secured more life insurance. Jake and Ed had plenty, but found no use for it, though one of them came near dying of heart disease and the other rolled sixteen cigarettes during the trip on the cable, just to show that he wasn't nervous.
